

Table of Contents

| | |
|--|----|
| Panstereorama Mania: When One Model Simply Isn't Enough | 07 |
| Blagovesta Momchedjikova | |
| Rethinking the History of Famous Panoramas: A Russian Perspective | 17 |
| Alina Novik | |
| “Unusual Attraction! Amusement for the Million!” “Historical and Mirthful” The Magnificent Diorama of the Conflagration of Moscow, with Legerdemain, Magic, and Ventriloquism | 20 |
| Suzanne Wray | |
| Hidden Treasure: Panoramas of the Alaska Territory by Topographers with the United States Geological Survey (1910-1932) | 27 |
| Richard E. Schneider | |
| The Panorama and Vernacular Cultural Landscapes | 35 |
| David Kutz | |
| The Diorama: A 19th Century Immersive Experience and a 21st Century Reconstruction/Reimagining | 44 |
| Perry Hoberman and Kasie Alt | |
| Re-Presenting Cultural Heritage with VR Panoramic Photography: Lessons Drawn from Media Art History | 51 |
| Seth Thompson | |
| Cinematic Suture and Panoramic Stitch: Subject Formation in Immersive Virtual Reality | 59 |
| Kohki Watabe | |
| The Contribution of Virtual Reality Technology to the Future of Museums Experiences | 66 |
| Jonathan Biz Medina | |
| The Panorama-salon: the Google Cardboard of 19th century | 70 |
| Thiago Leitão de Souza | |